United Way of Salt Lake

Working for Racial Justice

As an organization, United Way of Salt Lake is committed to solving complex social problems at scale. By centering racial equity, diversity, and inclusion in everything we do and collaborating with partners in our community, we believe we can succeed in transforming the many systems that create inequitable outcomes.

We’re using a stepped process to intentionally and thoughtfully plan our approach, guide and assess our actions, and continuously improve. The approach consists of five discreet areas we’re calling the “Five R’s.”

By creating and following a structured approach, we can identify areas of focus and specific actions that will enable us to make significant and measurable progress.
